

Educational Public Performance Rights Agreement For Institutional Buyers

Educational public performance rights are included in the Institutional Price of all films sold on this website. Educational public performance rights means any non-commercial exhibition to a group for educational purposes. Showings where an admission fee is charged are not permitted under this license agreement and would require a special license and, often, a licensing fee.

Permitted screenings include face-to-face teaching in a setting where such teaching normally takes place. They also include library carrels and the like, so that a professor can put a video "on reserve" in the library for student viewing after class. Screenings taking place in a theater, auditorium, or any public place outside of classrooms, whether commercial or non-commercial, are not permitted with this license. To inquire about purchasing a license for a public screening of the film, contact Transcendental Media at kings@transcendfilms.com.

Restrictions

Educational public performance rights do not include the right to transmit videos by analog or digital means by broadcast, open-cable, direct-broadcast satellite, the internet, or any other "open to the general public" means, nor to any off-campus or distance-learning site, without prior written permission.

Closed-circuit dissemination within your institution is allowed provided that it is used solely for face-to-face teaching purposes in places where face-to-face teaching normally occurs: e.g., classrooms or lecture halls. Closed-circuit use in places not normally used for face-to-face teaching -- such as dormitory rooms, cafeterias, or student lounges -- is not permitted unless a special license is obtained.

Similarly, closed-circuit transmission to another campus or distance-learning site normally requires a separate license and license fee.

All DVDs sold by us are protected by international copyright law. No DVD may be duplicated, altered, broadcast, electronically transmitted, digitized, edited, or shown where an admission fee is charged without our prior written permission. Violation of copyright law is a federal crime; it is also unethical.
